DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1 and 10-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The specification fails to provide support for the limitations directed to a Ru interlayer having a thickness from 3 to less than 10 Å wherein the magnetic layers are antiferromagnetically coupled across this interlayer. The specification as originally filed also fails to provide support for the end point of this range. The specification discloses a range of 3-30 Å with 3-20 Å being preferred and a specific example is provided wherein the Ru interlayer is 10 Å thick. Thus, there is support for the range of 3-10 Å. The original disclosure also fails to provide support for the limitations directed to the presence of an antiferromagnetic exchange field H_{ex} and an antiferromagnetic interface exchange energy density J_{ex} .

Applicant argues that antiferromagnetic coupling along with the presence of J_{ex} and H_{ex} are inherent features of the structure disclosed in the specification.

The application as originally filed fails to establish that the inventors were in possession of the concept of a Ru interlayer of 3 to less than 10 Å in thickness wherein Co magnetic layers on either side of the Ru layer are antiferromagnetically coupled. Whether the feature is inherent in the disclosed structure is a moot point because there is no written description to support such an amendment. See 35 USC 112, second paragraph:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claim 20 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 20 recites the limitation "said alloy" in line 1. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim.

5. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Holly Rickman whose telephone number is (571) 272-1514. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday 9:30-6:00.
